HONORING OUR TRADITIONS

BUILDING FOR OUR FUTURE

Carrollton City Schools has a rich history of encouraging students to participate in the high school community through extracurricular activities. This involvement teaches students life skills beyond the classroom, resulting in well-rounded, life-long learners.

The construction of an indoor multi-purpose facility will provide needed space for our students in addition to providing a unique classroom space for innovative opportunities. This facility will serve the needs for all activities on our campus at a fraction of the cost of other buildings considered. This type of facility will provide opportunity to collaborate with our community and provide the best we can for our students.

OVER 1200 HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS PARTICIPATE IN 51 ACTIVITIES

"An indoor facility not only would have given me more preparation to improve my game performance, it would also give all student athletes the opportunity to put more time into their sport."

-Thomas Culwell
Football and Soccer Player

"An indoor facility would greatly eliminate conflicts and enhance safety. It would be especially beneficial for the band during the hot days of band camp and during inclement weather that keeps us from practicing on the field. It would also give us a much needed lighted space for marching practice during football season."

-Kate Griffin
Trojan Marching Band
Drum Major

"I believe having an indoor facility would change the game completely for multiple sports. Now we are limited to sharing fields, practicing really early or late because of the lack of space, or not at all during bad weather. It would have made a difference in my prep career."

-Ansley Barge
Three-sport athlete

80% OF CHS STUDENTS ARE INVOLVED IN EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

WHY NOW?

The Carrollton City Schools campus was developed to accommodate activities so that our campus is alive with Trojan spirit at all times. But our extracurricular philosophy comes with a price.

Because of growing population and high student involvement, the system is currently at maximum capacity for squads requiring space. The construction of the new Carrollton High School includes plans for an auxiliary gym to provide much needed space for these activities. In an effort to be good stewards of public funds, we seek to construct an efficient and economical facility that will consist of the planned auxiliary gym as well as a large, enclosed universal space to better serve our students. This space will be unique as it will benefit all students in the system. Funds raised in this campaign will provide funding for the indoor multi-purpose space.
